GOSSIP OF THE SPORTS

Senators Not Disturbed Over the Game Lost to Orange.

CONNOLLY'S HOODOO INTACT

Dan Lynch's Proverbial Luck Did Not Help the New Brunswick Lad a Little Bit—Buddy and Borley Training Hard for Their Coming Battle.

There was a hot time in the Oranges last night. The pets of the Jersey community had met and defeated the major League aggregation of spire chasers from the National Capital. The Giants' old twister, Hayler Westervelt, had put the brakes on Wagner's balltossers to the tune of 7 to 5. Hence the glorious celebration in Swampscott.

Had these innocents but known how little the Senators tried to bat out a victory they would not have been so jubilant. Tom Brown naturally was not over anxious to play his men "off edge," and sent them on the field with waiting orders. Joe Stanley, the young Washington twister, who has figured quite prominently in local baseball circles, was put in the box for the Lawmakers. He did his best, but that best was not quite good enough for the Jerseys. Add to that the listless support accorded him, and the defeat seems explained.

Such a defeat is absolutely of no consequence, no matter how viewed. With the final effort of the season before them it would have been little short of idiotic for the Senators to have pumped themselves out merely for the satisfaction of winning an exhibition game. The local fans don't care a rag how many exhibition games go by the board, but they have a vital interest in the contests that figure in the percentage tables. They want good ball from a team that has shown itself capable of winning nine games out of eleven, and if they don't get it, want to know the reason why.

Dan Lynch's usual luck didn't prove of much use to Eddie Connolly, who lost a decision to Owen Zeigler in San Francisco on Tuesday night. Sporting men on this side of the Atlantic have come to the conclusion that Connolly's showing against Burge in England was something of a fluke. Since his return to this country he has certainly done nothing to justify his great battle with the Britisher. "Kid" Lavigne made the New Brunswick man look like a selling player when they met at the Broadway Athletic Club in New York. Later on Connolly had all he could do to hold his end up against Jack Daly at the same club. Notwithstanding this poor form, Lynch took Connolly in hand and carried him out to the coast. Sharkey's manager attempted to match his man against "Kid" McPartland, but could not come to terms with Jack Dougherty, the "Kid's" former manager.

Needless to say Zeigler's victory over Connolly was not as all quip with the "Frisco sports. They were down book line and sinker on Lynch's pet. There is no place in the world where they bet on fistic battles as they do in San Francisco, and Zeigler and his friends took quite a bunch of the "necessary" out of Harry Corbett's pockets.

Jerseyites are to have another chance soon to show if they want thoroughbred racing in their State. Three amendments have been drafted to take on the present racing law, and the question will be put to vote. The promoters of the scheme intend to place the game on the same basis it occupies in New York State. If this is done, there is a good chance of seeing the "ponies" chasing around the old quartering course next season. Several attempts have been made by racing men to revive the sport in Jersey, but heretofore without success. The movement this year, however, has been pushed with a perseverance which bids fair to be successful.

It is reported nowadays that the "Duke of Gloucester" is all but broke, and, less he would welcome with delight a return of the good old days of the Jersey merry-go-round. It is hardly probable, however, that racing at Gloucester, conducted under a law similar to the Percy way, would be successful. It is by far too much to expect a game for the average Gloucester patron.

There promises to be a pyrotechnic display of jabs, uppercuts and swings at the Spa Athletic Club, next Thursday night, when Pat Ruddy and Nick Burley clash, that will put to rest a Fourth of July celebration. Pat is looking for a chance to redeem his lost prestige in fistic circles, and Burley is just as determined to give the East Washington man another drubbing.

Burley is shaping up for the fight at "Bull" Doodney's place on the Condit road, and is in great form for the battle. The chances are that Ruddy is in for another dose of the Californian's repertoire of jabs. Burley is not a defeat by any means, but at that he can't defend a good many more men than can put the boys in the ring.

Ruddy made a big mistake in fouling Burley at their last meeting and it probably taught him a lesson when the contest was stopped. His friends at the Outing Club say he means business this time. If this is so the battle will be a great one.

Arthur Jones, the local scrapper with the sunset glow complexion, wishes to accept today's challenge. Jones and his manager will call to meet Banks at The Times office tonight at 8 o'clock.

This foolish jabbering by Fitzsimmons about Corbett "quitting" at Carson City, is simply a farce.

Mr. W. W. Galloway

has the distinction of being the first customer to cross the threshold of our store. So many followed in his wake that we grew tired counting them, and had our hands full showing clothes to the hundreds who came yesterday at our opening wanting to buy.

We really did not want to do any selling, but after folks had a glimpse at our stock, the attractive prices displayed everywhere, their insistence overcame our scruples. Half of Washington was at our reception last night, and moved up and down the floors in endless throngs, charmed by the beauty of the decorations and electrical display.

Today we begin business in earnest.

—Business on the plan of giving more value for the same money or the same value for less money—a path that cuts the way direct to success.

D.J. KAUFMAN,
CLOTHIER AND FURNISHER,
1007 Pa. Ave.

Is simply idiotic. Dan Stuart conferred a lasting favor upon "Gentleman Jim" when he carried his verisimilitude to the ring. It conclusively disproved the statements made by the Kansases. No one who sees the shadowgraph reproduction of the great man will for a moment question the absolute genuineness of both men.

As Charles White says—and White is a true sportsman—"So it was very true when the New York players this season, 'going fast' if Fritz wants to retain the very slight hold which he now has on the American sporting public he would do well to stop 'stocking' Billy Brady's proteges."

MORGAN.

Congress Heights Electrified.

Members of the Marine Band last evening reversed the order of things. As is customary, they kept with the music, but last night the music caught the step of the troops as they marched through the oak grove at Congress Heights by means of the Cinematograph, which captured the immense crowd. By request this wonderful exhibition will be exhibited with a number of other moving picture every night during this week. Free. Take new electric cars at Navy Yard Bridge.

Yellow Fever Spreading.

The dread disease has made its appearance in several Southern towns and the natives are greatly alarmed; and yet the little neglected sicknesses kill far more people than the most dreaded epidemics.
